

The Importance of Mentoring for Career Development

CCBIO Special Seminar 03.10.18

13.00-16.00 at Aud. B320, Haukeland University Hospital

In this seminar organized through the CCBIO/Harvard INTPART partnership, we wish to explore how to make the most of mentoring opportunities, and provide tips and inspiration for both mentors and mentees. The seminar will consist of short presentations, panel discussion and interactions with the audience. Participants include:

- Marsha A. Moses, Ph.D., Julia Dyckman Andrus Professor, Harvard Medical School and Director, Vascular Biology Program, Boston Children's Hospital
- Roland Jonsson, Vice Dean of Doctoral Education at the Faculty of Medicine, UiB
- Roopali Roy, Ph.D., Instructor, Harvard Medical School and Moses Laboratory, Boston Children's Hospital
- Anne Blanchard, Ph.D., researcher at CCBIO and the Centre for the Study of the Sciences and the Humanities, UiB.

Welcome and introduction by Lars A. Akslen, Director of CCBIO

The seminar is open to all interested and includes a pizza get together following the seminar. No registration needed.

For more information about the seminar: www.ccbio.no

